It provides you with an easy-to-use solution for text processing tasks such as automatic word order and character reversion. You can modify the order of individual words or characters, change the text's font and color, and more! You can define two ways of text processing: automatic and user-driven. Both methods are available in the upper menu of the software and will be available when using the software. The first is an automatic process, where you have no option other than activating/deactivating it; hence it always works. The second is user-driven, as if you want to decide between "high" and "low" results. In that case, you can activate/deactivate it manually. Reversal is possible in two modes: from a word to a character and vice versa. Here, changing the appearance of the selected text is trivial. You can decide between the reverse and the usual character case. You can do this either from the menu and the menu bar, or by pressing the button in the lower left. The high-performance text-processing application can process a simple text document in a few seconds. It is available in English, Dutch, Portuguese and Spanish.
